BRITISH TROOPS have not stopped at Tobruk but are already pushing on, and reports received in London late last night stated that our advance units have reached Derna, the next large coastal port, and also Mekili, 50 miles inland south-west of Derna and on an important road link.

Derna is one of the four chief towns of Libya and is much larger than Tobruk. Situated about 140 miles north-east of Benghazi, it is in the centre of a fruit-growing district and in normal times has a population of around 8,000.

THE attention of the Department for the Maintenance of the National Morale has been drawn to an exhortation given by Land Derby to the boys of Rossall

"You must fit yourselves for the commercial battle for the world's markets that will follow the war."

Rejarding this Peace Aim, there are various opinions, and this Department would not presume to give one of its own when it might quote such a supreme authority as "The Times," which says:

"Beyond doubt one of the fundomental causes of this war has been the unrelaxing efforts of Germany . . . to secure wide enough foreign markets to straighten her finances at the very time when all her competitors were forced to adopt exactly the same course. Continuous friction was inevitable." $$$ 1\\\$$ $\\$$$

To militant souls who delight in conflict, the prospect is no doubt gratifying. Placing these two atterances together, we see

(a) Battling for the world's markets was the cause of this

(b) We must go on after the war battling for the world's marke s;

(c) Therefore, as soon as this war is over we must start preparing for another one. flow are we equipped for this post-war-pre-war battle? "The Times" has d'scovered that the Germans are better armed for the "continuous friction" than we are. Our financial and economic authorities, it cays, have been staggered by the "miraculous feat" of

Nazi finance. "The achievement has been so surprising that for a long time outside critics were inclined to regard it as an optical illusion."

So far, it tays, Germany "Beems to have had no serious difficulty in financing the war, Nothing is ever heard of the necessity for increasing taxation, compulsory saving, or the listudd of chormous war leans, Quite the contrary, Recently one important tax was abolleh-

But for their staid and respectable origin, one would say that these observations draw perilously near the verge of Rude Remarks.

Are we to understand that our financial and economic authorities are 50 years out of date? Are we to infer that the prestige enjoyed by our great economic experts for the past ten years has been as illusory and ill-founded as that of the Franch General Staff?

There is no avoiding the con-clusion that "The Times" does not mean maybe.

has fallen. For years we have hung on the words of these great men—these experts, at whose lightest word Britain stopped to listen; these bankers, from whom, year in, year out, statesmen and captains of industry obediently took their orders for the day.

And now the oracles are dumb.

The veil of their wisdom is rent, disclosing a 50-year-old gramophone, bound in hide. The seat of economic authority Is vacant. Gross darkness covers the land and the people are as sheep having no shepherd. Where shall we turn for guldance?

"We should study the Nazis' achievement," says "The Times," "prepared to adopt whatever may be useful in it and to take warnbe useful in it and to take warning from its mistakes." This is a pill not easily swallowed. In our search for economic wisdom we must now turn straight from the Bank of Eng-land to Hitler, not stopping at the School of Economics.

Having now commended our great economic experts to the care of the Museum authorities, we turn to our new tutors. What is the secret of Hitler's "financial mirnele?" Here further shocks await us. We find a reversal of our customary rules and practices.

How The Invasion Was Defeated

WE have just lived though what History may well record as the most momentous. One Hundied Days in our island story.

The full story should be told now of how the Navy, the Air Force and the People smashed Hitler's plan to Livade Britain.

The germ of that victory was born when the B.E.F. was saved from Dunkirk.

Its spirit was embodied in the thousands of Browns, Smiths, and Joneses who answered the call to man the civilian armada that brought to safety two-thirds of the British Expeditionary Force from the sizzling French beaches: In the R.A.F. fighters who kept the Nazi dive-bombers at bay; and in the men of the Royal Navy who kent the martery of the Channel waters during three vital days,

The Battle of Britain opened in the first week of August. On the 8th, General Sander, of Goering's Air Force, gloated over the German wireless:

"The German Air Force Stands ready in a wide crescent stretching from Troudhjum to Brest. In the centre of this thousand-mile screamed, "We shall comet" crescent lies the main objective, a comparatively small island. England. There is no point on the island beyond the reach of our bombers General Sander had missed the 1,400 injured, mostly in the thicksignificance of Dunkirk.

They meant to batter their way through our defences, strike down our air force, destroy our harhours and naval bases.

Time-Table

By August 15, Hitler meant to dustry turning. Train crews, bus be in London.

But August 9. the day of the greatest battle since Dunkirk, proved disastrous to the hopes of Hitler and his minions. It was the Luftwoffe, not the R.A.F., that was struck down. The wreekage of 60 raiders littered the pleasant fields of Kent and Hampshire or found a watery grave in the Engfound a watery grave in the English Channel.

Nor did the R.A.F. remain on the defensive. A daylight counter-offensive was carried out from Jutland to the Bay of Biscay.

The Gotha aircraft factory was nartly destroyed. The Junkers factories at Dessau and Bernburg and the Messerschmidt works at Augsburg were damaged. Munition factories at Luenen and Greven-broich, military objectives in the Ruhr, oil plants at Leuna, and 17 aerodromes in Holland, Belgium, France and Germany were attacked. Fiat works at Turin and Milan in Italy were subjected to German losses mounted until on August 15 they achieved the record figure of 180 bombers and lighters in one day.

From that day onward, the Nazis practically abandoned the use of their hilberto deadliest weapon, the Junkers 87 divebomber. It was an admission that the tactles which had succeeded barges, self-propelling barges and against every other enemy had other craft was becoming imfailed against Britain,

The American Press hailed the From the air hundreds of bursuccesses of the R.A.F. as "bril- ges, 150 feet long, and each capliant proof of Britain's offensive able of carrying two train-loads

Navy In Action

Early in October, the Navy carried out an action against Cherbourg, an action that will be classed among its greatest exploits. In the dead of night the warships moved silently towards the harbour. The Germans were taken by complete surprise.

As the ships approached the mole, orders were given for full steam ahead. The defenders on shore mistook the roar of the engines for dive-bombers, and began to fire at the empty skles with their anti-aircraft batteries. The warships proceeded until they were right alongside the mole. then blazed with every gun.

Rentedy that cures through the blood, and have done with enforced rest, worry, suffering and expense. Leg aches and pains soon vanish when Elasto is taken. l'ainful, swollen (varicose) veins are restored to a healthy condition, skin troubles clear up, leg wounds (bad leg) become clean and healthy and quickly heal, inflammation and irritation are soothed, piles disappear, rheumatism simply lades away and the whole system is braced and strengthened. This is not magic, although the selief does seem magical : it is the natural result of revitalised blood and improved circulation brought about by Elasto, the tiny tablet with wenderful healing powers.

Everybody is Asking—What is Elasto?

This question is fully answered in an interesting Booklet, which explains in simple language this amazing new method of curing through the blood. Your copy is Free, see offer below. Suffice it to say here that Elasto is not a drug, but a vital cell-food which must be present in the blood to ensure complete health. It restores to the blood the vital elements which combine with the blood albumin to form organic elastic tissue and thus enables Nature to restore elasticity to the brokendown and devitalised fabric of veins, arteries and heart, and so to re-establish normal, healthy circulation, without which there can be no true kealing ! The health of every organ and tissue of the body depends upon healthy cellular activity, and to ensure this, vigorously circulating, oxygen-rich blood is absolutely essential. NINE TIMES OUT OF TEN THE REAL TROUBLE IS BAD CIRCULATION.

THE Managing Director was not tired. A man is never tired till he can find the minute to sit back to consider his feelings, and those minutes do not exist in a British aircraft factory in 1941.

He had been tired very often during those long years between the wars when, ignored by a sceptic world that loved to enjoy the moment, he had found it so hard to keep his factory going and his key men at work, Possibly it would have intrigued him to compure the sense of exhaustion that would overwhelm him at the end of those empty days with the freshness that spurred him on as the evenings closed in on these crowded hours. He might have discovered then that it is not work that tires a man but worry. However, there was no time to philosophise. Just as there was no time to feel tired. He went on thinking but, things out 'till on the swift precision of his thoughts there broke the sudden jarring ring of a telephone bell.

"Priority call!"

The soft voice at the exchange stopped suddenly and a rasping tone came booming into the receiver. It was the voice of the Minister of Aircraft Production.

"Beaverbrook speaking."

"Yes, sir,"

Now the Manager knew he was tired. Otherwise there would cer- Thursday night. One day to test

"Yes, what is it?" the Managing Director wanted to know,

"I just wondered, sir, as both the other test pilots are away whe- machines?" ther . . . well, whether there might be any special orders for me at the aerodrome."

Special orders! The fellow was just uncanny. He stood there and he wanted to know about special orders when there were eighteen bembers to test in twelve hours and the two test pilots were. Just as a man's life flashes in his memory before he drowns, the Managing Director thought about this man in front of him, this man of fifty who had flown in the days when enemy pilots tried to shoot each other down with rifles. He remembered the September afternoon in 1939 when he stopped his car in front of a flying club just because he never could pass by an perodrome without stopping. He remembered the empty hungars, the autumn leaves that had got stuck on the propellor of the lone-ly machine that stood forlorn upon the turmae because this flying club was just closing down like all the other flying clubs, Particularly he remembered this follow in the same blue serge suit that he was wearing now, rememcered the rather wistful way he lcoked of the empty hungars as he pessed about the aerodrome.

And because the Manager had nothing else to suggest he did not answer that one.

And the dawn came. It came with the rhythmic whirr of many propellors. A bad day for testing; They watched him take the first 'plane into the air and they waited, these experts, these draughtsmen, these air mechanics. He did not look fifty, they thought, when he stepped out of the first machine, spoke his instructions with the air of one who knows exactly what he wants, one who ha learned his job and likes it. Then he clambered into the second plane, circled the aerodrome, flew away, gave a few directions to his observer, landed and took off again. And so through that cloudy autumn morning the amazing think went on. And all the while the roar of engines ready started on the ground drowned the whire of that solitary engine high up in

MEET the clinical thermometer, a proper part of the equip-ment of every household in which there is a child or children.

If a person has a temperature below the normal arrow mark, there is generally little to worry out anything else, But, for the sake of variety, you enion, can include occasionally meat, But nbout, unless, of course, there are other serious symptoms such as collapse. But if the temperature mounts to 100, due respect must made with milk, in addition to fried for children. It is much be paid to the germs causing this, and a search rhould be made for the trouble.

I address my remarks especially drink often enjoy it in this form, baked. to mothers of small children, and

Let me warn them first against the temperature alarm, both signs of demonstisation in the nursery, To produce a thermometer and shove it in the child's mouth or elsewhere just because the little one is flushed after romping with the dog in the park is unealled for, And to get the wind up and rush panic-stricken to the telephone for the doctor because Clarence is 99 after a hot both is equally foolish, bearn to recognise that the thermometer is not so much a detective of disease as a strong witness for the prosecution against the germ.

Children have an amazing way of double-crossing the thermometer, however. At cight o'clock one night a child may be almost by the revival on a large scale of delirlous, restless, hot, flushed, the beret, because it is not only thirsty, and registering a temperature of 102, and yet next day when the doctor calls the "invalid" may be sitting up in bed, a scrapbic smile illurarating his countenance and the whole room, too, That is the way with children -to one day, down the next, and never in any serious illness to be despuired of.

In many cases such transient rises of temperature mean the early battles of immunity-the primary struggles against germs which determine often that the child is to be free from certain diseases for ever afterwards.
So don't despise that Fale which may lay your child low for a day or two and make you impatient with the family practitioner becouse he can't put a name to the reaction. Everything happens for the best, and the best is not al-

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brushi Dailyshavingleavesmanymen's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day. To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER—a special cream for daily shavers. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush. No lather, Notaticky or greavy. A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth ail day.

Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine

shaving preparations.

"ALTHOUGH no members of his family have ever taken an active part in sport, Jack Honywill, who has been one of the most outstanding players this Rugby season, has himself played Rugby ever since he can remember.

BORN in a tiny Welsh village with an unpronounceable 225 name, where Rugby was not just a game but almost a religion, he was kicking a ball around almost before he could walk with any security, but it was not until be went to Lowis Grammar School that he ever played in an organiaprogressed.

Capt, Woods, in the pivotal position for the whole game, gave a good display, and if he in able to play in another posttion in the intermediate line should have strong claims for inclusion in the team.

Hassan, at right-half, was not up to his usual form, perhaps due to his strange position, but when in possession he made the best use of the ball and plied both his right-winger and inside-forward with fine through passes, Olsen, who sportingly came into the team in the absence of the selected player, did not have a happy afternoon in the 'centreforward berth for Whites. He was up against Reed, who did not allow him to settle down and was always up and able to intercept

Jeshir Singh was' the better centre-forward, being well-suptrol though he is somewhat slower

DOCTORS AND SCIENTISTS USE HORLICKS IN HOSPITAL TESTS

DECENTLY tests were made in a great IN hospital on men and women who complained of always feeling tired. It was found that these people had an excess of acid waste products in their blood during steep.

This acid waste kept the brain and nerven on edge all night even though the rest of the body was sound ealesp.

But when Horlicks was given to these people last thing at night, this excess acid waste was completely neutralised. They woke refreshed, with increased energy and vitality.

HE has sublime faith in "Daddy's" power to guard him from mischance. No man would willingly betray such trust. Even so, every father is subject to the contingency of a shortened life. Failure to provide against it may let his loved ones down into a sea of want. The way to avoid this disaster is to own enough Life Insurance to guarantee a monthly income to his family. .Then his protective power will live on even if he is taken away. . If you are not absolutely sure that your family would have enough money to live on month by month, fill in and mail the coupon below. It will bring advice as to how best to arrange such an income within the means at your disposal.
